SALMON FIELDS MEADOW

Salmon Fields, Royton, Oldham

The opening of this beautiful new site in September 2007 makes a fitting extension to the existing site, which is now full at Salmon Fields. The site has been graciously donated by the Countryside services of Oldham Council and is a further endorsement of the willingness of the Council to add to the established success of the scheme.

Because of the close proximity of the Meadow to Dr Kershaw's Hospice, it will be obvious to clients that the hospice will be the main beneficiary of the monies generated by the site.

This site has a lovely well-maintained pond, regularly used by local fishing enthusiasts. It is quite remarkable that such an attractive well-kept rural aspect can be found almost in the centre of Oldham.

The site can accommodate about 150 memorial trees thus adding to the magic and splendour of the location.

Access to the site sports a large car parking area, disabled and clients with mobility problems will have little or no difficulty when visiting their memorial tree.
